

C I A

On the Virginia side of the Potomac River, the picturesque parcel of land that is the current site of CIA headquarters ...

In 1959 work on the original headquarters building began

... by May 15, 1962, the new CIA headquarters building was fully occupied.

Retrieved on 14 April 2019 from

<https://www.cia.gov/news-information/featured-story-archive/2008-featured-story-archive/original-headquarters-building.html>

Directorate of

ANALYSIS

DIGITAL INNOVATION

OPERATIONS

SCIENCE & TECHNOLOGY

SUPPORT

MISSION CENTERS

The Directorate of Analysis (DA) provides timely and objective all-source analysis on the full range of national security and foreign policy issues to the President, senior policymakers, operations officers, and warfighters.

The Directorate of Digital Innovation (DDI) focuses on accelerating innovation across the Agency's mission activities with cutting-edge digital and cyber tradecraft and IT infrastructure.

Accountable to the President, Congress, and the American public, the mission of the Directorate of Operations (DO) is to strengthen national security and foreign policy objectives through the clandestine collection of human intelligence (HUMINT) and Covert Action.

The mission of the Directorate of Science & Technology (DS&T) is to preempt threats and further US national security objectives by harnessing technology and tradecraft to enhance and protect operations, collect and report intelligence, and identify and exploit our adversaries' weaknesses.

The Directorate of Support (DS) provides everything the CIA needs to accomplish its critical mission of defending our nation. Serving side-by-side with our mission colleagues from the DA, the DS&T, the DDI, and the DO, our job is to ensure that all our mission elements have everything they need for success.

The Mission Centers work closely with all Agency elements to help meet current and future national security challenges. The centers serve as locations to integrate capabilities and bring the full range of CIA's operational, analytic, support, technical and digital skillsets to bear against the nation's most pressing national security problems.

The CIA is separated into 5 basic components

- The Directorate of Analysis,
- The Directorate of Operation,
- The Directorate of Science and Technology,
- The Directorate of Support, and
- the Directorate of Digital Innovation.

DA – members of the DA help provide timely, accurate, and objective all-source intelligence analysis on the full range of national security and foreign policy issues to the President, Cabinet, and senior policymakers in the US government.
President's Daily Brief
World Intelligence
Review (WIRe)

DO – accountable to the President, Congress, and the American public, the mission of the Directorate of Operations (DO) is to strengthen national security and foreign policy objectives through the clandestine collection of human intelligence (HUMINT) and Covert Action.

DS&T – to preempt threats and further US national security objectives by harnessing technology and tradecraft to enhance and protect operations, collect and report intelligence and identify and exploit our adversaries' weaknesses.

DS – provides everything the CIA needs to accomplish its critical mission of defending our nations, it serves side-by-side with our mission colleagues from other directorates, our job is to ensure that all our mission elements have everything they need for success.

DDI – focuses on accelerating innovation across the Agency's mission activities with cutting-edge digital and cyber tradecraft and IT infrastructure